1989 - 1990 has been the year for change. We have been refreshed by eleven new teachers and we have welcomed Mrs. Linda Beckett as Business Administrator, Ms Sally Marshall as Director of Development, Miss Nancy Northgrave as Director of the Residence and Miss Barbara Healey in her new job as Acting Head of the Junior School.

Change brings new life to a school. It is exciting. It sparks renewed energy and creativity.

Next September, we will see even greater change, a new Head of the Junior School and a whole new Junior School with its new classrooms, much larger gym, its new library and performance area. With great interest and anticipation, we have watched the construction of the new buildings on both side of Mount Pleasant.

But this has also been a year of transition and transition can be difficult, especially for the staff who affected the move from Read Acres throughout a very hot summer and for grades 6 and 7 and their teachers who are having to cope with cramped quarters. The Junior School administration staff has been crowded into one room; the library shares with assemblies and art classes; grade 8 girls endlessly trot back and forth over the overpass; physical education classes take place in a portable, the hall in Rosedale Presbyterian Church or, preferably, outside; the boarders have given up some of their space and some of their privacy for they live cheek by jowl with grades 4 and 5.

The Board of Governors, Alumnae and Parents' Association and over 100 volunteers have been very busy raising money which has meant hours and hours of extra phoning, planning and meetings often at 7:30 a.m. and in the evening. Everyone has contented with mud, reduced parking and traffic jams. And with all of the above, I have heard very few complaints.

My deep thanks to all, for their cheerful support of the school and their willingness to set aside difficulties to concentrate on the facilities which we will enjoy soon. True the Branksome's traditional spirit, we have just "got on with it."

During the past 6 years I have sat thru 6 installation of the Prefects ceremonies, but never during that time did I think that one day I would find myself at the podium, wearing the velvet jacket and addressing the school as Head Girl, well today here I am! Wow! and as I stand here I realize how quickly my years at Branksome have passed.

When I look back on those years I realize that Branksome is the combination of many different elements which make it a very special place. The staff are a dedicated group of people. The student body is made up of girls from kindergarten to grade 13, who together form a group of friends who know how to work together and of course, who know how to have fun. It is these two groups of people who make up the body and spirit of Branksome, and Branksome spirit is something that our school is famous for. This special school spirit is an ever present force that can be seen and felt at each team game, clan game, or school activity. It is represented in ways varying from loud singing and chanting of Branksome cheers, to painting BH in large letters on our faces and dancing around with our extremely spirited school mascot - Ribbit the Frog.

We are now at the beginning of another school year that is ready with new events and new experiences. So far, my newest experience of the year has been living in residence. I now see a different side of Branksome and that is thru the eyes of a border. Living at school, eating dinner with 100 girls, having to wait for the phone, having firedrills in the middle of the night and meeting girls from all different parts of the world has started my year off in a new and different way that I will always look back upon with fond recollection. Branksome offers this same experience to each girl thru the day girl/ border exchange which provides the opportunity for a day to come into boarding for a week and then for a border to live away from school for a week.

There is one important thing that I have learnt thru my years at Branksome it is the need to participate in school life in order to enjoy it to the fullest. I truly believe that the more you put into the school, the more you will get out of it. Taking part in Branksome activities is also a great way to meet new people, who may even become your best friends. If you have been unsure about whether or not to join a certain club at school, hesitate no longer! The year has only just begun and there is still plenty of time to become involved. There are many examples of what Branksome has to offer, so take hold of each new experience that comes your way, for the more you put into Branksome, the more you will get out of it, and you will enjoy your school days that much more.

- Thank you

As co-editors there were several new features we wanted to add to the Slogan. Colour was first and foremost and we hope that it will become a permanent element in the Slogan as it adds new interest and brings to life the spirit of the school.

The Blueprints on the endsheets serve as a reminder of the anticipation and excitement, yet difficulties of a year of construction.

Thank you to Mrs. Gray who was a great help to the advertising editors. Our thanks also to all the section editors for being so committed and meeting their deadlines. To the grade ten typists, Corina Garces, Sandra Luz, Eva Ng, "what would we have done without you?!".

JUMIOR SCHOOL

MISS HEALEY

1989/90 has been a unique year for the Junior School. September began with you finding yourselves not just in new grades but in new and different buildings, including Sherborne, Ainslie and MacNeill Houses and the Senior School. And how could the cafeteria, which was now the library and art room, possibly hold all of us in assembly? It did, but very snugly! We watched from a variety of vantage points to see parts of our old school torn down and our play ground become a muddy excavation. The official ground breaking ceremony was most colourful with our 323 green and white balloons in the sun. Finally, the concrete footings were poured and then gradually our new building rose.

It has been a year of many and varied excursions including grade 8's visit to MacKenzie House and Spadina House; the exchange with a French school in Montreal; grade 7's trip to Boston; primary's sunny afternoon at an apple orchard; grade 6's spending a day typical in the life of a donné at Midland as well as performances of the ballet, TSO and plays.

However varied our physical location was this year, it did not dim the Branksome spirit. Whether it was clan games in the senior gym, or physical education in the hall of Rosedale Presbyterian church, as students of the school, you rose to the challenge of the changes with enthusiasm. You worked creatively and very much as a team, making our adventure a success. To the entire Junior School staff; the Junior School prefects, Binnie and Sally; and your student leaders, Katie, Carolyn, Ros, Susie, Robyn, Heather, Stefanie, Devon, Samantha, Leigh, Daniela, Jennie and Meling, a special thank you for a job very well done.

Next year, you will have another adventure as you settle in to enjoy the new school building that you have seen materialize. My best wishes to you and continue to "Keep well the road".

SALLY & BINNIE

On the west side of Mount Pleasant lies a very special part of Branksome Hall—the Junior School. This year was a little different because the school was separated among four buildings due to the construction. Although prayers were a little squishy, and most of the activities were held either outside or in our library/art/assembly area; we still managed to have spirit week, a talent show, Valentines Day party, Pep Rallys and Big Sister Little Sister. Not even the construction can take away from the spirit and spunkyness of the Junior School.

We would like to thank Katie and the Crazy Chieftains, Miss Healey, Miss Brough, the Staff and Prefects for all their help and encouragement.

But most of all we would like to thank the students, for welcoming us with big smiles whenever we entered the Junior school.

Thanks for making our year extra special, good luck to all of you next year.

SPORTS CAPTAIN

It has been a very exciting year! I would especially like to thank the wonderful teachers who helped the chieftains and myself. They were: Mme Plastina, Mrs. Beamish and Mrs. Georgevski. Also a warm thanks to the super chieftains who did many exciting activities such as a jelly bean contest, bake sale, clan games, Christmas sing-a-long, spirit day, the first annual junior school ramabai week, clan gatherings and much, much more.

There were many exciting clubs and teams this year! There were the cross-country, soccer, badminton, volleyball, baseball, basketball, synchronized swimming, and tennis teams, track and field team/club, and the swim team who swam very well and won the Bishop's Cup. There were also many clubs: synchronized swimming, soccer, babysitting, photography, creative arts, sewing, cooking, and free swimming. This year there is a new club called the Wen-do club. The Wen-do is a course in which the students learned many methods of self-defence.

This has been an exciting and most interesting year! Thank-you for your most energetic spirit, Junior school; and thank you for making my job the best!

CHOCOLATE CHIP. PENGUIN. PAPER CLIP. "THE MODERN PENGUINS OF THE ARTIC HAVE DISCOVERED A MILLION DOLLAR IDEA! CHOCOLATE CHIPS WHICH ARE STUCK ON TO COLOURFUL PAPER CLIPS ARE NOW BEING SOLD IN THE FOOD MARKET . . .!

To those in the Debating club; I'm sure know what I'm talking about.

Every Wednesday after school, girls from grades 7 and 8 who were members of the Debating club, met in the junior school library.

Throughout the school year, we have learned many new interesting ideas and games to boost our wonderful talent of Debating. BALDERDASH, JUST-A-MINUTE, and TRIPLE SPEECH have all added to the fun.

We have had tournaments against other schools and among ourselves covering many of today's headline topics such as: The Re-Unification of Germany, and Apartheid in South Africa. We have also covered most the topics that adolescents are eager to discuss! It has certainly been a very exciting and competitive year with all those imaginative and intellectual minds. On behalf of the Debating Club, we would like to give our deepest respect to Mrs. Hollenberg and Mrs. Chilton for all their encouragement and tactful criticisms. And a very special thanks to Kate Manson-Smith and Lynne Bradley for being such spirited and devoted Debating advisors!

Stars of Life

Stars live long.
And the sun even longer.
What is it that lives out yonder?

The grass may grow
And the redwoods die,
But the futures unclear for you and I.

Lions growl And bluebirds sing. Such sadness death must bring!

If the future comes, The past is gone And memories are never wrong.

The sky is blue, Yet the clouds are white. What may lurk in the dark of night?

When the lies have ceased And the truth is told, Dark won't be feared by the young of old.

A fish can swim
And a cat has pride
By what rules must I abide?

Though the world is old, And some stars just new There's no limit to what you can do.

Homework is rough. And homework is tough! Homework takes time. I'd rather suck on a lime! Homework's a pain, It'll drive you insane! With Homework in sight, You may stay up all night. If homework never was known, I wouldn't be writing this poem! Instead I'd be outside playing.

The Leaves

The Leaves are curling. They are flying and whirling. Dry and parched they lie in pain, Waiting for a sudden rain.

They are scattered all around, Then raked up into a mound, Then thrown away in garbage bags, As if they were old, dirty rags.

CEILIDH, MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM M. YOUNG

MRS. PENNINGTON

Nancy Schell Pinnington is retiring this year as Managing Director of the Branksome Hall Foundation. Miss Pinnington is an alumna, a parent of a Branksome Graduate (Victoria Pinnington, 1980) and a board member since 1978. She was the Chairman of the Branksome Board from 1981 to 1984 and has been on the Branksome Capital Campaign Management Board since its formation in June, 1988.

Future plans include: building a perennial flower bed, sorting books and photographs, spending time with her 6 grandchildren, doing volunteer work and entertaining, travelling and honing her bridge skills.

Her extensive and very able contribution to Branksome Hall is greatly appreciated. We thank you very much Nancy and wish you well in future endeavors.

Boarding in Buccleuch begins and ends in tears. This year Buccleuch had twenty-five rowdy girls of various different nationalities and personalities. Being a boarder here includes experiencing phone line-ups, midnight feasts, disappointment and joy, ordering pizza after nine pm. while Mrs. Riley and Mrs. Dwyer try hopelessly to stop us, blaring stereos at 10:29 pm, waiting for mail and lunch and most of all the new and everlasting friendships.

What are we like here in Buccleuch? Let me introduce you to the girls here. Nicole is doing her Callanectics; Janet, her neat roomie is twirling her pen . . . how? Molly's on the phone again . . . wait, Amanda just jumped on the table and said batte-batte-bat . . . what?? More gingerale Victoria? Hilarious Tiffany's room is a haven for stuffed animals. Anita, Fie, and Kiran are turning in for the night . . . why? They're getting up to study at 4:30 am. Vanessa reads her French novel. Claudine and Andrea are with their turtles Fag and Geek. From Nancy's and Marissa's room on the top floor we hear with beating of sound of Guns n' Roses. And Kym, well what can we say about our Aussie, she's undescribable. Now there's Gwen, she's bounding off the walls again. Alexis and Keely are trying to hang a lobster from the ceiling while playing balloon volleyball and A's winning. Hi ya Tammy? Cindy? Amy?, who the heck is it? Amy W. is a new person everyday. And here's Deanna eating her noodles again. Oh no? Karen is in one of her many turmoils again. Now at last we reach Amy S, Heather and My (Manju's) room and what the . . .? It's already decorated for Christmas and its only November. And as we leave Buccleuch, we hear the ringing of Jen's voice echoing through the hallways.

AINSLIE

- Spiffy's a great friend to be with, it looks as she's heading for her best year yet!

- So Maria, what is salty, wet and big? Oh yeah, your favorite body of water, right? Yeah, whatever you say.

- Wendy? Chocolate chip cookies, coffee and frozen yogurt. Wendy? She's a darling.

- Siham: definitely a hard person to describe -- but certainly a great friend

- Neeta(n)-neehtah: dif: a party animal who resembles Morticia on special occasions the Fung of our house is also the fun of our house. A party animal from H.K.

Elena-Adrienne Vittadini, Calvin Klein, Ralph Laurien, Vixa, American Express, Holt Renfrew and tanning Salons

- who is a party animal and bounces in and out of rooms hyper from the previous weekend, and loves to keep her roommates up at night - Mara

- Andrea: Funloving, dedicated swimmer, loves Montreal and it's residents.

- At first glimpse a quiet reserved person, but Lixa could defend herself if she had to. Do you go to BHS?

A quiet self contained and shy person with a great sense of humour - Jen Tam
 Christina - Always there to talk to. Happy comforting and funny James waiting???

Julia doesn't like to unpack, always low on cash but happy with a smile. Is it wind out . . .?

- Male, fun, Parties, laughter, secrets - you never know what will happen next.

Ainslie house: a grey structure which resembles a prison, but in actual fact is a gathering place of diverse personalities. A place where 13 girls share many memories and lasting friendships.

RESIDENCE IS . . .

THE EXPERIENCE!

DIRECTOR OF RESIDENCE

My first year as Director of Residence has been a most enjoyable and exciting year. I feel so fortunate to have met so many interesting people who are willing to share ideas and responsibilities and to have had such a fine group of resident students.

We began the year with a "Get to know Toronto" weekend which included a visit to the C.N. Tour, lunch at Queen's Quay, a boat cruise around the Toronto Harbour and a trip to Centreville Amusement part at the Toronto Island. Our next activity weekend included a visit to Black Creek Pioneer Village, Simcoe County museum, Cullen Barns, and "The Tour of the Universe" at the C.N. Tower. Another activity weekend included bowling, skating, a laser show at the Planetarium, and a matinee theatre.

The girls have been given the opportunity to see ballet, opera and theatre; for example, Aida at the Skydome, Les Miserables, The Nutcracker Ballet and The Phantom of the Opera.

We have had after-dinner speaker's, and, of course, our traditional theme dinner's which are always fun. Boys from St. Andrew's College were invited to a special Hallowe'en dinner.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mrs. Lumsdon, the assistant Director, the Residence Housemothers, the Health Centre Staff, The Residence Council, and last but not least Lynette Fritzley for all her help.

I wish all of you who are graduating the very best for the future, and I look forward to seeing many of you again in September.

In the meantime, enjoy a happy and relaxing summer vacation.

SENIOR CLANS

What is a clan and why am I on one? Have you ever asked yourself this question? Perhaps this perplexing issue is better answered by first mentioning what a clan is not:

- Your clan is not just a supplier of chocolate chip cookies, chocolate bars, candies, pizza, popsicles and pop to be distributed on various occasions through out the year. (However, I'm not complaining!)
- Your clan is not just a reason for you to wear a green pin on your tie so that everyone can ask you what it means and if it is your boyfriends name. (Not that I mind people thinking I have a boyfriend!)
- Your clan is not there so that you have a different and exciting venue to hang out in on Wednesday mornings where you actually are allowed to sit on the desks!

Okay, it's true! Your clan is all of these things but it can also be so much more. Being in a clan allows you to meet girls in other grades and to join together as a united group whether it is to compete in "friendly" lunchtime games, to raise money for charity or to meet together afterschool for runs, gatherings and bashes. Just remember, the best clan event is where everyone is there! Continue supporting your clan and make your chieftain smile! Thanks chieftains, subs and clan participants for a great year!!!

HAITI

In March of 1989, Mr. Eric Barton, headmaster of Upper Canada College, led a group of six students from U.C.C., Jarvis Collegiate and Branksome Hall on a week project in Haiti. Branksome grad Tori Barton and I were two of the three girls on the trip.

In Haiti, the group walked in association with Habitat for Humanity, an organization specifically oriented in providing shelter for developing countries. During an eight day stay in Haiti, the group worked with Haitians to build a house in Les Cayes, a rural village. As well, we were able to meet with representatives from CARE International, spend time in Children's hospitals, visit orphanages, and talk to the staff and patients of Mother Teresa's home for the dying.

It was to say the least an eye opening and sobering experience to walk and live in a country as desperate as Haiti. Not only did we come to appreciate the country in which we live but as well the complexity of the problems in the Third world Nations.

AUSTRALIA

G'day Mate. How are you going? A typical salutation from a friendly Australian you might say. Although it has been two years since I travelled to the land down under, I have not trouble recalling the memories that I collected during my 3 months there.

Ah it was a good life. Surrounded by some of the most beautiful beaches in the world, Sydney gave me the opportunity to experience living in a tropical climate and to learn about a culture so similar yet so different to ours. Just one last word to all Aussies . . . You must definitely come from the land down under to smile and eat a vegemite sandwich!

Gretchen Stock.

Living in France is certainly an experience. Talk about culture shock! Figuring out the Paris subway system is hard enough, let alone learning the French way of life. It was all worth it. The people there became like a second family to us, and we made some great friends. Paris is a beautiful and fantastic city, and we can't wait to go back!

Our french girls loved Toronto and Branksome, even though they preferred their Paris fashion and wide jeans to our beloved kilt(?!).

Both sides were enriched by the experience and had a lot of fun at the same time.

To everyone who is thinking of doing a french exchange, consider this: Food, Fashion, Friends, & France. So GO FOR IT!

Hilary Burt Jennifer Lambert Elizabeth Pouncett

FRANCE

Last January, we left for Sydney, Australia where we spent 3 months on a school exchange with SCECGS Redlands. The school atmosphere at SCECGS was completely different from that at Branksome. Not only was the level of spirit different, but going to school with boys was a change! The uniform was also a big change because we wore straw hats, blazers, and bobby socks to school.

We were lucky enough to leave school to travel around Australia. We travelled to several different cities such as Melbourn and Canberra, Australia's capital city. One of the highlights in our travels was working on a sheep farm for a week. We spent our time herding cattle and sheep while riding on mini motorbikes, milking cows and being farm hands. After our experience on the farm, we flew out to the center of Australia to visit Ayers Rock. We managed to climb to the top of the rock and to tour the desert countryside.

Our exchange to Australia was a unique and exciting experience that we will never forget.

"So? What'd ya do?"

"I dumped her. What else was I supposed to do?"

"Didn't ya even talk to her?"

"Well, what were we supposed to talk about? Besides, I had soccer bractice."

"Bif, you're insane! It wasn't her fault she couldn't make it to your stupid award ceremonies!"

"Yeah, but I was 'Athlete of the Year'! It's a coveted award man! I mean . . ., it was my crowning glory! It was my goal, and I wanted her to be there."

"Aw, man! I-I don't know what to say."

"But do ya know what I mean? I wanted her to be proud. I wanted her to yell out my name, to tell everyone about my speed, my agility, my courageousness. I wanted her to initiate a standing ovation!"

"I don't believe you, pal! What do you want? Her grandmother just died! She went to the funeral! What did you expect? It's her family, man, but you know she would've done anything for you! Tania's one of the nicest chics I know!"

"Aw, c'mon, buddy. Which is more important - me or some dead stiff-?"

"BIF!!"

"Okay, Okay . . . Look, I was only kidding."

"The least you could've done was wait awhile. She's really upset about the grandmother and all."

"Yeah, yeah. I know. But, the formal's comin' up and I wanted to ask Sarah."

"You what??!"

"Look, I gotta go, man. See ya later." Bif single-handedly multilated his Coke can and scored two points in a bin 15 feet away. He turned around to wave at his friend, Pete, who, when he looked back, was still standing in the exact same spot, muttering something offensive with a disgusted look on his face. Probably about me, Bif thought. Aw! Hell, the guy'll come to his senses. He walked along his everyday path to go home. Suddenly, he spotted and elderly man across the street of one of the busier intersections in his area. Bif nimbly ran towards him, dodging each of the speeding vehicles that intercepted him and the other side with the expertise of a pro-football player.

"Better hurry up, old man, or you'll be late for dinner." Bif chuckled to himself in his usual deep procession of grunts that came from the furthest bowels of his beer belly.

Finally, he reached his house. He skipped up the front steps, knocking his brother's bike off the porch, and barged in the door. He passed through the kitchen for another coke.

"Hey, mom, what're we eating"
"Veal cutlets, tonight, honey."
"Nice. I could really puke!"

"Honey, I try my very best to__".

"Whatever. I'm going upstairs." He bolted to his room, grabbed the phone, and quickly dialed a number.

"Hello," a kind, yet appealing, voice answered.

"Sarah? It's me, Bif."

"Oh, hi!"

"Yeah. I was wondering if you'd like to go to the formal with me. The one coming up next month?"

"I'd love to!"

"Great! Uh . . . Well, do you want to meet sometime tomorrow? I mean, . . . we can talk about it then?"
"Sure. That'd be great."

Bif sighed. Piece of cake.

Sherrée Lantin

Muttering incoherently, Mavis shuffled through the refuse. This had not been a profitable day, she felt. A newspaper, popcorn, a discarded, half-eaten hot doghardly anything worthy of salvation. She removed her well-worn sneakers, placed them neatly in her shopping cart and pushed past the rather unfruitful waste receptacle, contented now to feel the city sidewalk beneath her bare feet.

Mavis was oblivious to the cacophony of the world around her. It had taken her a long time to be able to do it so well, but now she felt she had finally liberated herself from all that.

She pushed a dirty strand of hair behind her ear and muttered one of her passing thoughts to a woman standing near by. Indignant, disgusted and startled, the woman looked anxiously around her to find her quickest method of escape.

There was a time when such ability to evoke blatant repulsion in people would have deeply disturbed Mavis. But she had quite intentionally removed herself from such realms of existence, pacified as she stared, hunched over her cart at all of her worldly possessions.

The cart clattered before her as she scanned the debris along the roadside. Unintentionally, Mavis caught her reflection in a store window. Pausing thoughtfully, even she was momentarily astonished at the person into which she had evolved.

But a rumpled baseball cap lying on the sidewalk diverted her attention. Mavis stooped to pick it up.

Les enfants criaient ensemble, Et gallopaient par la plage. Se joignant main dans la main, Leur danse était comme un mirage.

Les étoiles criaient dans les cieux, La lune poursuivait le soleil. Leur jeu resemblait à celui des enfants, Leur danse en était paraille.

L'univers était allègre, Les enfants étaient enjoués, Quand la lune, le soleil, les étoiles S'harmonisaient pour l'éternité.

Autumn Sunday Reflections

It was autumn outside - vibrant colours: beautiful golds, yellows and reds littered the green grass. Her favorite month, why, she couldn't say. All the colours, maybe, or perhaps the perfect weather: not too hot, like summer, not too cold like winter and not so imbetweenish like spring. The reason had been temporily forgotten.

Inside, Glenn Gould was playing Bach on the radio, and she was making lunch for herself. Sunday afternoons are the best times to reflect on whatever. She knew there was work to be done - laundry and chores - but everything had been left alone for now.

Memories weaved themselves into the piano score as she contentedly took another bite of her tuna sandwich. Flashing in front of her eyes, she saw another time, in a different kitchen, listening to the same music. She couldn't place the person playing the piano, that, like the reason autumn was her favorite season had been forgotten, only to be remembered at a later hour. She recalled feeling secure and safe as if someone had put a large blanket over her cold body. Snuggling closer to this security, she recalls more.

The piano is small, and in the corner of the breakfast nook. The music is exquisite, full of feeling, passion and emotion. The player had thrown himself fully into his work. It is so obvious that he is concentrating on every forte, pianissimo, crescendo and accent - every aspect which makes Bach's arias so special.

The player is feverently moving; his white-collared shirt has visible perspiration lines coming down from his neck. She recalls thinking, How beautiful, as she lifts her wine glass - or was it coffee mug? - to her lips. The tme of day, like so many other details, has been forgotten. It is too hard to think clearly when memories are slipping in and out of your grasp.

She takes a sip of milk, and stares blankly at the half-eaten sandwich on the plate before her. Too many things are forgotten too easily, while others stay in her mind forever. The latter are such trivial things. Snatches of conversations, glimpses of reality and vague visions of dreams.

She reminisces through the old feelings, like flipping pages in a book. Caring for people, learning their views, concluding a friendship because . . . because no more could be learned. Stinging remarks, great comebacks, experiencing triumph and loss. These are the things she remembers.

The house is quiet. Gould has finished his pieces and her ideas have worn themselves out. Memories are exhausted, for now anyway. She cleans up the counter, finishes her drink and wraps half of her sandwich in foil to put in the refrigerator. More things will be remembered, and they will affect her once again. But, that will be another autumn Sunday reflection.

IN PRINCIPIO CREAVIT DEUS.

Day conquers its night For this is their fate. Rise to the east and cry. The sun is shy this morning And the sky is blue milk.

As He sits
Behind His newspaper
I watch Him
His flashing eyes
Intent up on the Starving Children
In Ethiopia.
What a shame, says He
And He turns the page.

I admire His dexterity.
Those capable fingers
Holding the world's problems
In one hand
And His coffee
In the other.
His eyes beating
A strong, steady, pulsating dance
Across the page.
Nonchalantly, it flips.
From nation to nation
Without solution or sympathy.

Suddenly feeling alone, sick and afraid I am the Children of Ethiopia And as if an unseen hand Had slapped me in the face For no reason I am numb.
But I must get out Break away into the street The night, the darkness Anywhere to hide the Pain That must show on my face To this stranger.
Starvation may bloat your belly, But apathy will break your soul.

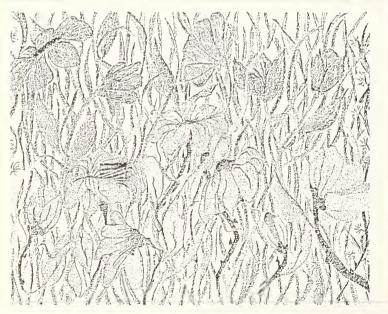

He is the one
Who understands all
The world's problems.
He has all the world's answers.
I wonder when
He will take Time to put Down His paper
And understand me.

IN FINE . . .

The 16's tennis team had an excellent year, but due to the measles epidemic matches were few and far between. Those matches that we did play were very successful! The team improved its strategy and skill, thanks to Mr. Crawford's excellent coaching and all those mornings when he brought doughnuts and muffins.

Remember keep thoses racket heads up!

15'S TENNIS

When asked, I leapt at the chance to do this writeup because I wanted the world to know how tremendous our tennis team was.

Whether we won or lost our games was nothing, it was our spirit that mattered. And what spirit we had! (Often having as many as 3 or 4 people to practices!) Every Wednesday afternoon we would appear sporting our elegant B.H. shorts and t-shirts and deftly conquering our opponents (at least that's the way we like to remember it!).

Although Track and Field can be called an individual sport, at Branksome we tend to think of it as a team sport. With a lot of hard work including guest appearances at St. Mike's track to train twice weekly, the team had a more than successful year. Not only did we win the ISAAG championships but many team members qualified for the METROS and then OFSAA. A very special thanks to Mrs. Wooley, Mrs. Jennings and Mrs. Bennett for all their time and patience, (many people don't realize how much time is put into coaching this team). Despite some painful shinsplints and exhausting workouts I think we can all look back on the season with a sense of pride and a ton of great memories.

TDCAA SOCCER

The soccer team had a very successful and exciting season. The team won many games as well as the TDCAA southwest division playoffs. We also made it to the Toronto quarter finals. After much hard work we placed in the top 8 teams of the 30 competing in the TDCAA's. Congratulations to a great team of soccer players and much thanks to Mr. McVay.

Sarah Parkinson

Although we didn't quite make it as far as the Blue Jays did this year, last year's sixteen's baseball team was full of the same spirit and enthusiasm one would find in the major leagues. Thanks to Mrs. Shaver for her words of wisdom and her doughnuts. Let's win this one for the Physics angel girls!

15'S BASEBALL

What do you think of when the words "Branksome Hall Softball 1989" pop into your mind? Spirit, enthusiasm, and fun! Thanks to Mrs. Cheeseman, we had one of the best softball teams in the league (we think!) We amazed our opponents with our subtle signals about base stealing, bunting and grand slamming! Memories include: Paula and Sarah making their great outfield catches, bus rides, Lisa's shoes, Kathleen's moves on first base, Joelle's pitches that no one could see but most of all, people shouting "GO BRANKSOME GO!"

The field hockey team had an amazing season, remaining undefeated in our league. Four times a week these dedicated players practised in the sun, rain, and snow! These kiltclad girls stuffing their mouthgards nto their mouths were unrelentless in trampling the opponents into dust. Through innumerable bruises, scrapes and bumps the team played on. Thanks to our coach Mrs. Bennet for her dedication and congratulations to the team for a great season.

X-COUNTRY

This year the X-country Team had a very exciting and successful season. From the beginning to the end. All of the team members showed great enthusiasm and improvement. Two members of the midget team as well as the Junior team made it to OFSAA where they were victorious. As a result of their win, six members of the Jr. team will be travelling to France this March Break to compete in an international competition. The Branksome Hall team remains undefeated. Special thanks to comanager Gill AvRuskin, congratulations to 'team captain' Sarah Hunter, and two thumbs up to our head-honcho "Coach Woolley". What's our secret? . . . TDCAA TENNIS

The 16's basketball team had a terrific season! No, we were not undefeated, but more important we did improve with every game and learned to play well as a team. We can't forget "driving in" or "Pass it to me" with the super aerobic moves. The cross-cuts, mid-cuts, top-cuts, side-cuts or the basic pass, pass shout rule. We played many tense and demanding games in both the TDCAA and ISAAG leagues. Sadly we will loose some of our mighty veterans; Palmer, Parker, Lambert, Anderson, Kunkel, and Dempsey, keep dunking! Special thanks goes to Mrs. Glennie a dedicated coach who always stood up for the players even if she did receive a technical.

In the fall the soccer team had quite a successful season in which they went all the way to the playoffs, against our longtime rivals B.S.S. We wouldn't have been able to accomplish this without the team's strong spirit, enthusiasm, and willingness to go out on the field and play to our utmost abilty. Thank-you Mr. McVay for your time, cooperation and endless lectures - though we may not show it at the time we are very grateful.

The spirit of the rower lies in the trust enstalled by others upon you - the commitment made and the feeling of belonging and never abusing that contract.

The spirit of the rower lies in the desire to win - not just for yourself but for others in your crew and those who have taught you to work.

The spirit of the rower lies in the respect they have for their coaches and the relationship that is built and often tested.

From what I have seen so far it looks like this year's badminton team is going to be EXCELLENT. The season ahead of us is looking full of victories. As always we will prove to be a great threat to our rivals.

Once the new gymnasium is built we are sure to be victorious, having the home advantage, though we've never needed it. A lot of credit should be given to our coach, Mrs. Bennett, who helped us all improve greatly. She's the best! I can see what the BH badminton team are soon to be champs!

The synchro season is well under way once again. The team practises weekly for the big meet which we are sure to do well in. The club has also begun preparing for the annual Synchro Show. It is great to see all sorts of new faces out this year - a record number! Of course, we couldn't do it without Mrs. Lumsdon and her gator eggs.

Thanks for coming out! Lindsay Oughtred and Susan Beyers. Synchro Captains 1989-1990. We started off the season with the B.S.S. tournament at U.C.C. Everyone played a very good game especially as it was our first. Unfortunately we did not do very well, but we did have a lot of fun. This year we had an incredible number of people try out. There was a tremendous amount of enthusiasm from Branksome students. Thanks to Mrs. Glennie and Mr. Craig for all their support.

SPORTS CAPTAIN

"Don't mess with the Best, don't fool with the Cool." This is indeed a line that Branksome's rivals are being forced to take note of. By the end of this year B.H. will have been represented internationally on two continents! This exemplifies the dedication and talent of Branksome athletes who are a force to reckon with world-wide. As sports captain, I have seen many Branksomites 'in action' and I was very impressed at the great show of enthusiasm and determination. This year has been marked by many outstanding sports achievements and I want to congratulate all the athletes on their successes. Thank-you for such a great, spirit filled year. I would also like to thank all the coaches for their help and support which I couldn't have done without. Good luck to all Branksome athletes in the 90's! Keep the Spirit!

St. Mike's juniors win with Wassenaar leading way

Sarah Hunter topped off a season to remember by leading her undefeated Branksome Hall junior cross-country team to a provincial championship on Nov. 4.

The 16-year-old finished 11th on the OFSAA course at Boyd Conservation Area in Woodbridge. That combined with Fiona Cameron (20th), Sara Richardson (35th) and Natalie Welsh (113th) for a team score of 180 and a victory over North Bay Chippewa and Toronto Michael Power. Sara Pickersgill was the fifth, non-scoring member of the team.

Marci Crossman, a member of Branksome's 1989 ski team won the Giant Slalom and Slalom events at O.F.S.A.A. She won the overall championship, earning the distinction of the top high school skier in Ontario.

ROCK ON . . .

Band

The Branksome Instrumental Program has once again maintained a high level of performance and quality. This year, we started with a trip to camp Kandalore for a rehearsal weekend. Rockclimbing, Volleyball and lots of practicing was enjoyed by all. Our first venue was to UCC in December. It was a pleasure to perform as the first girl's school that has ever played in prayers before. In mid December, we played a concert for Bethany Hills school in Peterborough, as well as our own Christmas Concert at home.

The highlight of our year though was our trip to Chicago in April. We enjoyed playing for the mayor one afternoon, as well as playing for a group of Chicago's music teachers. The trip was a fulfilling experience for everyone thanks to our music staff.

From all of us, I would like to thank Mr. Crawford for his support and dedication.

LESS TALK, MORE ROCK!

Environmental Affairs

Sons and daughters of mother nature, sisters and brothers of Branksome Hall, a new club has arrived and taken the school by storm! Environmental affairs have become a major concern for Bransomites this year and many have pitched in to help make Branksome Hall more ecologically aware. From a Blue Box program to recycling scrap paper, from the World Wildlife Fund to a trip to the Metro Zoo - this group has been adventurous in raising their own conciousness of environmental crisis and in helping to clean up our school and community. The occasional visit from Captain Ecology in prayers was unquestionably inspiring and we hope the enthusiasm continues in the future. I thank the founding members of this unique group for their ideas and support and ask that they remember the immortal words of Captain Ecology -

Less talk, more rock!!

Many thanks to Mrs. Merrilees.

OPHELEO

Every Wednesday at lunch, a group of about 50 girls would meet in room 9 to discuss what they can do to better society, even in a small way.

Every member of Opheleo gave many hours of their time by volunteering at different shelters and hostels in Toronto. Fundraising events were also held to support such organizations as the United Way and the Heart and Stroke Foundation.

All in all Opheleo was very successful this year and I'd like to thank all who participated.

The classics club had an excellent year, as we travelled down the pathway to a greater knowledge of the ancient Greek and Roman civilizations. The group met on Fridays to read and discuss Classical literature in translation. We watched movies set in the ancient world and

The Branksome Hall Student Council consists of class presidents, Heads of Societies, Grade Prefects, Communications prefect, and head girl. Though only in its second year of existence, the council has proven itself to be a great asset to Branksome life.

This enthusiastic group of girls met once every two weeks in order to discuss issues that were presented to them by their homerooms and clubs. This gives students from each grade the opportunity to voice their opinions. Communications at Branksome can only get better.

OVERHEAD MANIACS!

Assembly . . . Branksome wouldn't be Branksome without it. Don't you agree? Then you will also agree that the selected few who are privileged enough to be members of Branksome's prestigious communications club deserve a special thanks because without them assembly simply wouldn't be.

Club members rolled themselves out of their warm beds each morning to provide an invaluable service to our school, organizing the overhead for our morning hymn, setting up the microphone for our announcements, and placing benches for our teachers are only a few of the tasks these girls performed, and girls you performed superbly.

I'd also like to thank Miss Brown and Mr. Bickle for their piano playing.

This year, the library club has been a marvellous one. The Senior School library has been kept in tip top shape throughout the year. Thank you for all of your support! The Christmas pizza party and the Easter

Probably, the most noticable change in the library was the new ROM computers and CD players with headphones and CD's. WOW!! Doing homework and listening to Rock'n Roll at the same time. Isn't it fun??

Special thanks to Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Beech for helping me out

ONCE UPON A TIME . . .

Once upong a time, there were two little girls (one was more little than the other) who set off on a merry little journey at the beginning of September to discover a new world at Branksome Hall. This new world required them to act as liasons between the world of the past and the world of the present. They were called the Alumnae Representatives. This boarding blonde and diminutive daygirl went to monthly meetings and worked in the Alumnae office and shop. These fearless females were aided by the leaders of Branksome's past - the Alumnae Executives - and their dedication and support of the school was received with gratitude by the Representatives. After this discovery in 1990, their journey will continue well into the future (or at least until the first reunion) where they will meet their fellow grads who will also be on their own path to discovery.

PARENTS ASSOCIATION

Being the student liaison for the Parents' Association, my job was to keep the Association up to date on the student activities by attending the monthly meetings. Throughout the meetings, I learned how organized and devoted the Association members are to Branksome's operation and to students and parents. They are responsible for the mother-daughter fashion show, organizing talks on teenage problems, fund raising etc... They are always working for the welfare of Branksome and trying to keep parents involved. It was my pleasure to have been given the chance to contribute to the Association and to communicate with all the friendly and caring Association members.

B.I.R.T. . .

For yet another year, Branksome has been able to uphold its strong tradition of enthusiastic debating. Girls represented the school in tournaments from Toronto to Montreal and from Brockville to Boston, fairing well across the board. Less experienced debators had the chance to learn how to have "word fights" at workshops held at TCS, Grandbend, Gananoque and here at BHS. We also had informal debates at Branksome, which were fun and good practice for everyone. Eight girls from Branksome participated in S.O.M.A. (Model United Nations) and again we will be participating in Model Parliament.

The debating club has had a great turn out this year and thanks to everyone who has sacrificed their time: Alison, Bettina, Jess, Mrs. Brown and a special thank you to Mrs. Zommers.

Well girls, it has been a year and a half! Our Choir/ Band weekend and venture into the states, once again united the Branksome music FAMI-LY. There were times when we wondered whether we would make it through the Christmas season, but we survived everything from T.C.S. choir boys to Canadian Club dinner guests. There was also the B.H.S. Carol Service. Poor Mr. B. and the all abused 'Candlelight Carol'. With the spring came renewed energy and voice, and we hit I.S.M.F. with a BANG! This was an event enjoyed by all. The UCC choir gave 'pizzazz' to our Spring Concert, which was the "melodious for outstanding attendance above and beyond the call of duty.

KEEP SMILING! Lots of love, Your Pres and Vice MAGS and ANNA XOXOXO.

JAZZ CHOIR

This group of four eager students met every Tuesday to explore various kinds of jazz music. It was an opportunity to learn balance, technique and to grow in a small group. With our ever changing repetoire (ranging from "chesnuts" to "spread love"), we kept ourselves very busy. A special thanks to Miss Olfert for her dedicated leadership. Good luck to the rising stars!

Tash Perrin

Names: Tash Perrin, Kristin Pickersgill, BD Sigel Absent: Ailis Hamilton

CHAMBER CHOIR

Does it not amaze you, that when it is not a Monday, we manage to stand before an audience and convince them of our brilliance??? We've done weddings, descants, Kiwanis, recordings . . . and Chicago. Being a small group we know each other painfully well. Note; the Hilton's do not like mornings. We all love to sing, and together we have had fun making music. Thanks to Mr. B. for putting up with us.

LOVE

Mags and Anna XOXO.

AWARDS

FIRST ANNUAL MOTHER DAUGHTER ATHLETIC BANQUET A GREAT SUCCESS

The first annual Mother Daughter Athletic Banquet was held last May for members of the Branksome Teams. The gym was beautifully decorated in Spring colours by our Sports Captain Bay Riley. The tables were ladened with wonderful dishes prepared by the mothers and daughters.

Alison and Sarah Wiley, both former students and outstanding athletes at Branksome, welcomed everyone and presented the Wiley Award to Melony Jamieson. This award was donated by the Wiley's for the most outstanding athlete in the Graduating Year.

Awards were also presented to the Junior and Senior Athletes of the year and to the most valuable and most improved players on each team.

The evening was lots of fun and we hope to make it an annual event at Branksome.

Mrs. Jennings

BEST OF LUCK BRANKSOME HALL!!

If you can keep a secret....here's the recipe for our world famous "Kitchen Sink"

Start by placing I5 scoops of your favourite ice cream and sherbet flavours into an old (but clean) kitchen sink, then top with as many of the following ingredients that you can find (or create your own):

RICKEY'S TOPPINGS

Oreo Cookies
Peanuts
M&M's
Toasted Coconut
Jelly Beans
Cinnamon Hearts
Kit Kat Pieces
Oreo Mint Creme Cookies
Bubble Gum
Hot Caramel
Strawberry Sauce
Pineapply Sauce
Blueberry Sauce
Walnuts

Brownies
Pecans
Cranola
Reese's Pieces
Butterscotch Chips
Chocolate Chips
Crushed Graham Crackers
Nutter Butter Cookies
Hot Fugde
Chocolate Syrup
Marshmallow Sauce
Butterscotch Sauce

Last, but not least ---- cover with whipped cream and a cherry!!! (P.S. keep plenty of napkins and Alka Seltzer on hand for your friends).

A LAST LOOK
